

I am a Software Configuration Management and Build / Release consultant with extensive automation experience.

I love to make processes go faster with less human interaction and have automated build and release processes for large multi-revision products.

My specialty is ClearCase and ClearQuest and I also have experience with AccuRev and Subversion. I have planned, implemented, deployed and supported SCM processes and tools for small single-location and big projects located in 5 timezones.

I am looking forward to bring quality and consistency to your software product by implementing a solid process that works for developers, testers and support engineers alike.
